BCU Assist Security

How secure is BCU Assist?
We take the security of your personal and financial information very seriously. Your accounts through BCU Assist are connected with your standard log-in credentials, and all your information is safely encrypted. Only you can connect your accounts through your secure BCU Assist login.

How is my data protected?
All your information is safely encrypted with 256-bit SSL, mirroring the highest security standards utilized by world-leading organizations such as Amazon.

How does BCU Assist know it is interacting with me and not someone else?
For your security, BCU Assist requires you to log in to your Digital Banking profile before answering any questions about your accounts. To help protect the security of your accounts, it is important to always use strong passwords or passphrases, and ensure that they are not stored online or any place where they could be accessed by others. If you suspect your accounts or account information has been accessed by someone other than you, please contact us immediately via secure Message Center in Online Banking.
Can someone else take money out of my accounts using BCU Assist?
Absolutely not. Rest assured, BCU Assist does not allow you or anyone else to transfer money into or out of accounts, or to make any kind of payments. Transfers can occur within your own accounts only.

Do you store my bank account number or other financial account information?
When you connect your bank or other financial account, we encrypt and store that information so your account stays connected. However, the data is stored anonymously and securely, and we do not have access to it.

Do messaging apps see my financial data?
In the same way that text banking works, your device’s SMS application is able to see information that is communicated during the conversation. For example, if you ask how much you spent on groceries last week, the SMS application you are using will be able to see that number, but it will not have access to your financial accounts or any transaction details.
